WE THE PEOPLE

A STRUGGLE WORTH FIGHTING

On the 18th in 1925, Adolf Hitler publishes his first volume of the manifesto "Mein Kampf" (Translation: My Struggle) While America takes time to celebrate the birth of a nation, The United States of America, we cannot forget the individuals in history that have cast a dark and sinister cloud over the entire globe on which we live. This single individual impacted countless lives, with the loss of nearly 70-85 Million people, or 3% of the global population, during WWII.

Main themes of the book:

1. The book describes the superiority of the Aryan race,
2. Further describing Hitlers plans for Aryan world rule,
3. Finally, the Jews are destroyers of the world and so should be destroyed.

Regarding the great American experiment, Billy Graham, provides insights in his writings as follows: "America has probably been the most successful experiment in history...There is no doubt that when a nation ceases to fulfill the function God intends, that nation comes to an end. Monstrous new ideas that could easily destroy our freedoms are rushing on the scene. A terrifying spiritual and moral tide of evil has already loosed us from our spiritual moorings."

A RACE FOR MORE THAN JUST SPACE

On the 20th in 1969, Apollo 11 lands the First Man on the moon. From the time that President John F. Kennedy, announced that we would set the goal to land a man on the moon, America united and the dream was realized as the message was received: "The Eagle has landed."

While this race was primarily between America and the Russians, the real beneficiaries were all people globally. Rewards to the global population included, a complete revolution in electronics, producing the likes of personal computers, smart phones, microwaves, satellite TV, water filters, electric car batteries, U.V. Sunglasses, memory foam, athletic shoes and more.

In the 60's, who would have thought that private industry would influence space travel with reusable rockets, that can land back on earth, vertically on a lunch pad?

Thank you, Elon Musk, Starlink, SpaceX and to all people, globally.
