On the 24th in 1965, The Beatles start their first full day of filming their second feature film "Help". Oh, Lady Liberty, Help, we need you like never before. Help us get our feet back on the ground.

On the 26th, in 1848, the Communist Manifesto, published by Karl Marks and Frederick Engels. Karl Marx writings in the Manifesto heavily influenced Vladimir Lenin, whose 16' statue you can find in Seattle (Fremont) Washington. In fact many are surprised to learn that the Communist Party is active in the USA.

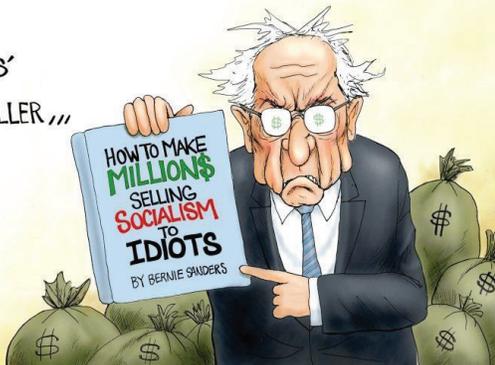

What then has been the impact of Communist influence on the American experiment? Cleon Skousen in his book "The Naked Communist" lays out by identifying 45 goals that would destroy America.

Later in another book "The 5,000 Year Leap" he writes about why America is different and how Providence inspired the Founding Fathers to do all that they did in the establishment of the United States of America. Within these writings, the message is clear, that each of us has a responsibility to understand what we have been given so that we might work to preserve these freedoms for future generations. Done correctly, we influence the world for good, raising the standard of living for all to enjoy.

Finally, Prior to Bloody Sunday in Selma, AL, we find that a group of Congressman met in the Capitol to address the issue of voter registration for African-American citizens.

Gus Hawkins of CA states "If each of us confines his activities strictly to his own local interest, who in Congress is going to be looking after the national interest?"

Charles Diggs of MI states that our delegation "...encouraged them to keep fighting to attain their objective of being first-class citizens with the right to vote."
