

JANUARY 2022

What was the purpose behind the 18th Amendment? Read about it here. Lasting nearly 14 years, it was finally nullified in 1933 because? Was it really nullified?

Believe in yourself and your country: America was built on the premise of Freedom, Ingenuity, Grit and a simple willingness to ask tough questions while allowing for others to do the same.

Here is a question, is American Ingenuity best described in "Build Back Better" or "Make America Great Again"? To understand, let's look at their origins. Build Back Better, was given new life in the book written by Klaus Schwab, "COVID-19: The Great Reset." Which when you consider all the international leaders following and supporting this slogan, you might then ask, at what cost to the American people. "Make America Great Again" has its origins in discussions relating to "American Exceptionalism" and the 2016 presidential elections. At the core of this discussion, is America unique? Has America been a blessing to the global community? Has America been giving up its Freedoms as they continue to outsource to foreign markets? Does America give up Freedoms for its people as we enter into International Agreements wherein, we give up our right to ask questions as we create solutions?

January 6th, 2021, what happened? Did the Constitution even apply? Were the events in our nations Capital a year ago an Insurrection, a Petition for grievances or a public gathering to discuss issues of the day. Were the FBI or other Federal Agencies involved in the stirring up of the crowds to create the impression of an insurrection?

Insurrections or Riots were clearly seen across America in 2020, as cities saw buildings burn, neighborhoods were taken over and people were arrested and released, many times with the help of politicians. Yet many of those held in the January 6th activities, were not afforded the same privilege.

A petition is clearly a Constitutional Right to address grievances. The biggest grievance that was to be questioned in 2020, dealt with elections and rights that many Governors took to change election laws, in 31 States. This was done on the premise that Governors exercised their emergency powers, without the support of the State Legislative bodies, which was clearly in violation of Constitutional Law.

So, did people have a right to address Congress to petition for this grievance relating to a Federal Election?
YES. What then is the right way to Petition?

Simply, are we losing our ability to ask questions? When will we begin to hold leaders of Government Agencies and our elected leaders accountable? We The People, seem to be held accountable at every turn, what about those that lead?

Do we want to give up our right to ask questions? Some would have us move into a global reset, where we allow for international agencies to decide what we can do, is this what our Founding Fathers intended? Should we forego our right to ask questions, or our history of American ingenuity? How do we peacefully stand for what is right?
